Renewable energy implementation in South Africa. Energy is critical for national development due to the growing industrialisation in the country. South Africa has an estimated 35 billion tons of coal reserves (3% of the total global coal reserves), with 30% export of its coal production, and ranking 7 th in the world coal consumption.

The studies by Ordonez et al. (2021), Dorband et al. (2020), and Montrone et al. (2021) on Indonesia, Vietnam and India show that - similarly to South Africa - coal plays a dominant role as the main fuel in energy supply and for Indonesia also as an export good. The Indonesian and Vietnamese governments regard domestic energy resources ...
