Why are the Palestinians naming Battir a green village?

The Palestinians, along with green organizations, hope the designation will reinforce their battle against the separation fence that Israel is building near Battir, south of Jerusalem. The village occupies a total area of 7,165 dunums and has a total population of about 7,000 inhabitants.

What is a battery tower?

A battery tower was a defensive tower built into the outermost defences of many castles, usually in the 16th century or later, after the advent of firearms. Its name is derived from the word battery, a group of several cannon.

Did Israeli Air Force hit a high-rise building in Gaza?

There was no immediate information about any casualties. Israel's air force said in a statement its fighter jets hit two high-rise buildings in Gaza, alleging they housed Hamas "military infrastructure". It was not immediately clear if one of those buildings the air force was referring to was the Palestine Tower.

Why are battery towers connected by ramps?

The individual levels of battery towers are often connected by ramps so that the cannon could be arranged in various ways at the many embrasures. Where artillery towers were level with their adjacent walls they were called roundels. Look up battery in Wiktionary, the free dictionary.
