5. Heap: Heap is the segment where dynamic memory allocation usually takes place. The heap area begins at the end of the BSS segment and grows to larger addresses from there. The Heap area is managed by malloc, realloc, and free, which may use the brk and sbrk system calls to adjust its size (note that the use of brk/sbrk and a single "heap area" is not ...

A Beequip is a type of inventory item that can be worn by bees. When equipped to a bee, they alter its stats and can also give bonuses to the hive. Beequips can only be given to bees that are at or above the level of the Beequip. Some Beequips can only be given to certain bees or types of bees, for example, the Bubble Light requires a bee with an energy mutation. When a Beequip ...

The Challenge: UK-based University of Central Lancashire (UCLan) extended its teaching facilities to Cyprus with a new EUR53 million satellite campus and the introduction of a new Learning Information Systems (LIS) network. The campus required the new facility and technology for use at the start of the academic term, so the entire project's construction was fast-tracked, forcing the ...
