Is North Korea expanding its oil & lubricant storage area?

Recent commercial satellite imagery of the Nampho Port, one of North Korea's largest commercial ports, shows that the petroleum, oil, and lubricant (POL) storage area is being expanded again. Three new, larger storage tanks are currently under construction, which, when complete, will mean five new tanks will be added this year.

How many new storage tanks are there in Nampho?

Three new, larger storage tanks are currently under construction, which, when complete, will mean five new tanks will be added this year. This is the latest in a string of improvements over the past two years that indicate Nampho, with its easy access to the West Sea, is one of the country's most important import points for oil and petroleum.

Does North Korea have a oil refinery?

North Korea has a smaller oil refinery, the Sungri Refinery, on its Russian border. The country had been able to import oil from China and the Soviet Union for below market prices, but with the end of the Cold War, these deals were not renewed, leading to an explosive rise in oil prices for Pyongyang and a drop in imports.
