Should Zimbabwe regulate solar photovoltaic systems?

The Government of Zimbabwe should soon put an end to the uncontrolled installation of solar photovoltaic (PV) systems in the country by regulating the sector. Authorities in this East African country are currently considering a related law, which should include licensing of technicians operating in the solar energy sector.

Should solar installers be licensed in Zimbabwe?

Authorities in this East African country are currently considering a related law, which should include licensing of technicians operating in the solar energy sector. The installation of solar photovoltaic systems will soon be standardized in Zimbabwe.

Will Zimbabwe have a green hydrogen power plant?

Plans for Zimbabwe's first utility-scale green hydrogen power plant, with 178 GWh of expected annual electricity production, were finalized in March 2023. According to the International Renewable Energy Agency, Zimbabwe had deployed 41 MW of solar by the end of 2022. This content is protected by copyright and may not be reused.

Is a solar plant on Lake Kariba the answer to Zimbabwe's electricity crisis?

China Energy Engineering Group has proposed to construct a 1,200 MW DC Floating Solar PV (FPV) plant on Lake Kariba to help alleviate Zimbabwe's unprecedented electricity crisis.

What does section 65 of the Electricity Act mean for Zimbabwe?

A major focus of the future regulation, under Section 65 of the country's Electricity Act, will be the licensing of technicians operating in Zimbabwe's solar energy sector, including manufacturers, importers, vendors, contractors and owners of solar energy systems.

Why is Zimbabwe focusing on renewables?

Zimbabwe's focus on renewables comes as it attempts to lessen its reliance on energy imports and improve access to electricity, as World Bank data shows that just 49% of the country had access in 2021. The country still faces significant power deficits, which contribute to regular power outages.

The Future of Solar Power in Zimbabwe. The future of solar power in Zimbabwe looks bright.
